Agustin Lomeli Joins SIMONA Boltaron as Aerospace Business Development Manager

August 17, 2023 - SIMONA AMERICA Group is pleased to announce that Agustin Lomeli has joined the company as Aerospace Business Development Manager in Central and South America.

In his new position, Agustin will be responsible for developing and implementing sales strategies to grow the business across all channels in Central and South America, while focusing on managing its exclusive distributor network.

In his new role, Agustin will be driving aviation specifications for the Airlines, OEM's, MRO, Aftermarket, and all aspects of the supply chain making the material decisions for aviation interior components. He will collaborate with our global business team and help drive new business in the aviation space.

"We are excited that Agustin has joined our team. With 40 years of experience in the aviation space, he brings a wealth of knowledge and leadership to our global team." said VP Strategic Planning and Business Development Karen Brock Amoah.

"I am very proud to have worked in the Aerospace industry for the last 4 decades." said Agustin. "I am very excited to have joined the SIMONA Boltaron family and look forward to working with this amazing team."
